

CONTRIBUTORS

Dieter Kerwer is a lecturer of international relations at the University of Munich. Kerwer's current research focuses on international organizations, international informal organizational arrangements, and the transnational regulation of global finance.

Nils Brunsson is a professor of management at Uppsala University and is affiliated with Score (Stockholm Centre for Organizational Research). Brunsson has published almost thirty books and numerous articles in the field of organization studies, including studies of decision-making, administrative reforms, and standardization. His current research interests include the organization of markets, partial organization, and meta-organizations.

Göran Ahrne is a professor of sociology at Stockholm University and a member of the Stockholm Center for Organizational Research (Score). Ahrne's current research focuses on the particularities of meta-organizations, the differences between organized and non-organized social relations, and on the organization of markets.

Diana Panke holds the chair for Multi-Level Governance at Albert Ludwig University of Freiburg. Panke's research interests include international negotiations, multilateral diplomacy, comparative regionalism, small states in international affairs, and European Union politics, as well as compliance and legalization. In these fields, she has published five monographs and more than thirty journal articles.

Bob Reinalda is a senior researcher at Radboud University Nijmegen, in The Netherlands. Reinalda has published the Routledge History of International Organizations: From 1815 to the Present Day (2009) and has edited the Ashgate Research Companion to Non-State Actors (2011), as well as the Routledge Handbook of International Organization (2013). He is an editor of IO BIO, the Biographical Dictionary of Secretaries-General of International Organizations: www.ru.nl/fm/iobio.

Sarah Henderson is an associate professor of political science at Oregon State University, where she teaches international organizations, Russian politics, and comparative violence, among other topics. Henderson is the author of Building Democracy in Contemporary Russia: Western Support for Grassroots Organizations (Cornell University Press) and of Women and Politics in a Global World (with Alana Jeydel, Oxford University Press), as well as several articles and chapters about development assistance, Russian politics, and civil society.

Christian Leuprecht is a professor of political science at the Royal Military College of Canada and a senior fellow at the Macdonald Laurier Institute. An expert on security and defense, political demography, and comparative federalism and multilevel governance, Leuprecht is regularly called as an expert witness to testify before committees of Parliament. His publications include nine books and scores of articles that have appeared in Government Information Quarterly (2016), Armed Forces and Society (2015), Global Crime (2015, 2013), the Canadian Foreign Policy Journal (2014, Maureen Molot Prize for Best Article), Canadian Public Administration (2014), the Canadian Journal of Political Science (2012, 2003), Regional and Federal Studies (2012), and Terrorism and Political Violence (2016, 2011).

Robert P. French II is completing a PhD in organizational leadership at Eastern University in Pennsylvania. French has written on the mindset theory of organizational leadership, applied to current nonprofit administration as well as ancient history. He holds a master's of theology and a master's of divinity and has served as a Methodist minister. French is assistant editor of the International Journal of Multicultural Education.